No Worker Left Behind

Enabling workers to acquire the skills necessary to succeed in the fast-changing global economy of the 21st Century is central to Michigan's strategy for economic transformation. In her 2007 State of the State Address, Governor Jennifer Granholm announced the No Worker Left Behind (NWLB) free tuition program to help Michigan workers create a prosperous future. The Governor continued to stress the importance of education, training, and lifelong learning for our adult workforce in her 2008 State of the State Address. The vision for No Worker Left Behind is to:

- Accelerate worker transitions through learning
- Support the state's employers and economic development needs
- Align the use of existing training resources

The Case for NWLB

- Michigan's economy is transforming into one that is knowledge-based, as more and more manual labor is mechanized and computerized. In order to accelerate this transformation, Michigan needs to continue to attract and create good jobs, while also fostering a culture of entrepreneurship to help individuals launch and grow their own businesses.
- A critical piece of this equation is equipping Michigan workers with the right sets of skills and educational attainments to seize new opportunities in the emerging economy. Jobs in knowledge-based industries require significant postsecondary training or a bachelor's degree.
- The No Worker Left Behind free tuition program is an opportunity to prepare the state's workforce for success in this changing economy. NWLB aims to help workers who are either unemployed or working in low-wage jobs get the right skills and credentials for jobs in the emerging economy, advanced manufacturing, health care, biotechnology, renewable energy, and other growing sectors.

Highlights So Far:

- 126,903 enrolled in training a/o April 30, 2010
- Thirty-five percent more workers enrolled in first nine months of the program's third year than in the first nine months of the second year.
- Educational institutions added or updated 79% more programs this year compared to the same point last year.

- No Worker Left Behind is a paradigm shift for Michigan, and it is exactly what we need to accelerate worker transitions and contribute to the state's economic transformation and global competitiveness. NWLB is making Michigan a symbol of lifelong learning in the United States.

NWLB Features

- Up to two years worth of free tuition at any Michigan community college, university or other approved training program;
- A skills assessment administered by the Michigan Works! Agencies (MWAs);
- Must pursue a degree or occupational certificate in a high-demand occupation or emerging industry, or in an entrepreneurship program;
- Free tuition program is a one-time offer

Tuition

- Tuition includes instructional costs, books, materials, fees (such as application costs, registration, and laboratory fees), and academic supportive services (counseling and career advising).
- Tuition assistance is capped at $5,000 per year for two years, or a total of $10,000 per person.

Training

- No Worker Left Behind's primary focus is on the attainment of certificates or associate's degrees of value in the labor market leading to a job in high-demand occupations, emerging industries, and entrepreneurial endeavors. However, bachelor's degree completion and even master's programs are allowable if the educational program meets all other core criteria (two years or less needed; will lead to job in high demand, emerging sector, or entrepreneurial endeavor; etc).

- Local Michigan Works! Agencies will be able to help participants identify high demand occupations in their region.
- Eligible participants can receive up to two years' worth of tuition for education or training.
- Once enrolled, participants need to complete training within four years of starting the program.
- Education and training providers must be licensed by the State of Michigan and/or be accredited in order to have participants funded by No Worker Left Behind.

Who Can Participate in NWLB?

- Any person who is currently unemployed; or
- Any person who has received a notice of termination or layoff from employment; or
- Any employed person whose family income is $40,000 or less.
- Participants must be at least 18 years old, must not have graduated from high school in the last two years, and must not be full-time college students (applies to 18-23 year olds only).

Placement

Upon completion of coursework and the attainment of a degree or certificate, many NWLB participants will require support in re-entering the workforce. MWAs will be responsible for placement, but will collaborate with the education/training providers to leverage employer connections and institutional placement services already available.

Funding

- No Worker Left Behind is currently being funded with a mix of federal training resources across several programs. Every available dollar of existing federal funds is focused in support of NWLB; and the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) infused millions of extra federal dollars to assist in getting workers retrained.
- In determining how free tuition will be funded for each participant, Michigan Works! Agencies and training providers will leverage federal and state financial aid grant resources, federal employment and training programs, as well as other resources, such as educational benefits included as part of a buy-out from a previous employer.
- Financial aid officers at educational institutions will work with their local MWA to negotiate a financial aid package for each eligible student.

Projected Outcomes

- Raising the number of at risk workers who attain certificates and degrees;
- Increasing the number of participants who gain employment related to the training they undertake; and
- Increasing the percentage of participants who achieve wage increases due in part or whole to their participation in the program.
